LESSON 8

Women, Healing & Restoration in Scripture

Faith • Perseverance • Compassion • Hope

Course: NHMEC Biblical Herbalism Foundations
Module: Module 2.1 — Biblical Herbalism
Lesson: Lesson 8
Instructor: Min. Penny Lane Whittemore CNC BCNWP CHGp RHCH CHHWC

Learning Hub: PENothecary™ Membership Website

Lesson Overview

In Lesson 1, we learned that Biblical Herbalism begins with God as Creator. In Lesson 2, we learned what it means to be a Christian herbalist. In Lesson 3, we studied discernment and spiritual boundaries. In Lesson 4, we studied the Good Samaritan model of compassionate care. In Lesson 5, we studied prayer, scripture, and whole-person wellness. In Lesson 6, we studied biblical foods, herbs, oils, and spices. In Lesson 7, we learned how to study herbs responsibly.

In this final lesson of the Biblical Herbalism Foundations course, we will study women, healing, and restoration in Scripture.

Throughout the Bible, we see women who suffered physically, emotionally, spiritually, socially, and relationally. Some carried long-term illness. Some carried grief. Some carried barrenness. Some carried oppression. Some carried shame. Some were overlooked. Some were young, unnamed, or powerless in the eyes of society.

Yet God saw them.

This lesson reminds us that Biblical Herbalism is not only about plants. It is also about people. It is about seeing the wounded, caring for the weary, encouraging the brokenhearted, and pointing people back to God as the ultimate healer.

A Christian herbalist must remember:

Women are not symptoms.
Women are not cases.
Women are not problems to fix.
Women are image-bearers of God.
Women deserve compassion, dignity, safety, and truth.

In this lesson, we will study four biblical examples:

The woman with the issue of blood
Hannah and her sorrow over infertility
The bent-over woman healed by Jesus
Naaman's servant girl as a messenger of healing

Each story teaches us something about faith, perseverance, compassion, prayer, restoration, and the role of the Christian helper.

Lesson Scripture Foundations

Mark 5:25–29 KJV

"And a certain woman, which had an issue of blood twelve years,

And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse,

When she had heard of Jesus, came in the press behind, and touched his garment.

For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole.

And straightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she was healed of that plague."

1 Samuel 1:10–11 KJV

"And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore.

And she vowed a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me…"

Luke 13:11–13 KJV

"And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God."

2 Kings 5:2–3 KJV

“And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid; and she waited on Naaman's wife.

And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy.”

Psalm 147:3 KJV

“He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.”

Lesson Objectives

By the end of this lesson, students should be able to:

1. Identify biblical examples of women connected to healing, suffering, prayer, and restoration.
2. Explain how Jesus showed compassion toward women who suffered.
3. Recognize that women’s health concerns must be handled with dignity and care.
4. Understand that emotional, spiritual, physical, and social burdens may overlap.
5. Explain why Christian herbalists must avoid shame, blame, and careless claims.
6. Apply the Holistic P.E.N. Way™ perspective to biblical women’s stories.
7. Create a compassionate Christian wellness reflection based on one woman in Scripture.

Opening Teaching

Women’s suffering is not invisible to God.

Many women carry burdens silently. Some carry physical concerns. Some carry hormonal changes. Some carry infertility grief. Some carry chronic pain. Some carry exhaustion. Some carry trauma. Some carry shame from being dismissed, misunderstood, or blamed. Some carry the pain of being unseen.

In Scripture, we see that Jesus did not overlook women.

He saw them.
He heard them.
He healed them.
He defended them.
He restored dignity.
He received their worship.
He honored their faith.
He responded with compassion.

For the Christian herbal student, this is important.

Women's wellness education must be handled tenderly. The Christian herbalist must not reduce a woman to her womb, hormones, symptoms, weight, age, emotions, fertility, or diagnosis. A woman is a whole person created by God.

Women need truth, but they also need compassion.
Women need wisdom, but they also need dignity.
Women need education, but they also need safety.
Women need prayer, but they should not be shamed.
Women may need herbs, but they may also need medical care.
Women may need encouragement, but they may also need protection, rest, and support.

Biblical Herbalism must serve women with both mercy and wisdom.

The Woman With the Issue of Blood

The woman with the issue of blood suffered for twelve years. Scripture tells us she had spent all that she had and was not better, but rather grew worse.

This woman's suffering was not only physical.

She may have carried:

Physical weakness
Financial loss
Emotional exhaustion
Social isolation
Religious uncleanness under the law
Fear
Disappointment
Shame
Desperation
Long-term grief

Yet when she heard of Jesus, she pressed through the crowd and reached for the hem of His garment.

Her story teaches us several important lessons.

1. Long-Term Suffering Is Real

Some people suffer for a long time. A Christian herbalist must never shame someone for not getting better quickly. Chronic suffering can be exhausting. People may have tried many things. They may feel hopeless, afraid, or weary.

Do not say:

“You should be better by now.”
“You must be doing something wrong.”
“You lack faith.”
“You just need this one herb.”
“This formula will fix you.”

Instead, say:

“I am sorry you have carried this so long.”
“God sees you.”
“Let’s walk with wisdom.”
“You deserve care and compassion.”
“Let’s consider what support is appropriate and safe.”
“Let’s pray for wisdom and strength.”

2. Human Effort Has Limits

This woman had sought help and spent her resources. Her story reminds us that human effort has limits. Herbs have limits. Practitioners have limits. Doctors have limits. Protocols have limits.

God does not have limits.

A Christian herbalist must be humble enough to recognize that they cannot heal anyone.

3. Faith Reaches for Christ

The woman reached for Jesus. Her faith was not in an herb, a product, a formula, or a person. Her faith was in Christ.

This is central to Biblical Herbalism.

We may educate about herbs.
We may teach nourishment.
We may discuss body stewardship.
We may pray.
We may encourage.
But we must point people to Jesus.

4. Jesus Restored Dignity

Jesus did not ignore her. He brought her forward, acknowledged her faith, and spoke peace to her.

Women who have suffered long-term often need dignity restored. They need to know they are not dirty, worthless, forgotten, or beyond hope.

The Christian herbalist should never increase shame. The Christian herbalist should help create an atmosphere of compassion, safety, and dignity.

Herbal Ministry Reflection From Her Story

The woman with the issue of blood teaches Christian herbal students to be gentle with chronic suffering.

When someone comes with long-term health burdens, remember:

Listen before speaking.
Do not promise quick results.
Do not make cure claims.
Do not shame the person.
Do not assume you understand their whole story.
Encourage appropriate medical care.
Offer prayer with permission.
Teach within your scope.
Point them back to Christ.

This story also teaches us that healing is not only physical. Restoration may include peace, dignity, identity, courage, and hope.

Hannah’s Sorrow and Prayer

Hannah’s story is a picture of deep emotional pain, prayer, and restoration.

Hannah longed for a child. Scripture says she was in bitterness of soul and prayed unto the Lord and wept sore. Her pain was not shallow. It was deep.

Her story teaches us that women’s wellness often includes emotional and spiritual burdens.

Infertility, miscarriage, pregnancy loss, childlessness, hormonal struggles, family pressure, comparison, and grief can affect the heart deeply. A Christian herbalist must handle these topics with great tenderness.

1. Hannah Poured Out Her Soul

Hannah did not hide her grief from God. She brought it to Him.

This teaches us that prayer is a safe place for sorrow. Christian wellness should not require women to pretend they are okay.

A woman can love God and still cry.
A woman can have faith and still grieve.

A woman can pray and still feel sorrow.
A woman can be strong and still need comfort.

2. Hannah Was Misunderstood

Eli saw Hannah praying and misunderstood her. This is important. Sometimes people in pain are misread by others.

A woman may be called dramatic when she is grieving.
A woman may be called emotional when she is exhausted.
A woman may be judged when she is quietly suffering.
A woman may be dismissed when she needs compassion.

The Christian herbalist must be careful not to misread suffering.

Ask gentle questions. Listen carefully. Do not rush to correction.

3. God Heard Hannah

God remembered Hannah. Her story reminds us that God hears the brokenhearted.

This does not mean every prayer is answered in the same way or timing. We must not use Hannah's story to promise every woman a child. That would be careless and harmful.

Instead, we teach the principle:

God hears sorrow.
God sees affliction.
God receives prayer.
God restores according to His will and wisdom.
God is near to the brokenhearted.

4. Hannah Dedicated Her Gift Back to God

When God gave Hannah Samuel, she dedicated him to the Lord. Her story teaches surrender, gratitude, and worship.

Restoration should lead us closer to God, not farther from Him.

Herbal Ministry Reflection From Hannah's Story

Hannah's story teaches Christian herbal students how to serve women carrying grief.

When serving women who are grieving, infertile, overwhelmed, or emotionally burdened:

Do not give shallow answers.
Do not make promises God has not given you.
Do not say, “Just relax and it will happen.”
Do not blame the woman.
Do not use herbs as a substitute for compassion.
Do not treat fertility as a simple formula.

Instead:

Listen with tenderness.
Pray with permission.
Encourage medical evaluation when needed.
Encourage pastoral or counseling support when needed.
Offer scripture as comfort, not pressure.
Teach general nourishment and stress support safely.
Remind her that God sees her.

A Christian herbalist must remember that infertility and grief are holy ground. Walk softly.

The Bent-Over Woman

The bent-over woman suffered for eighteen years. She was bowed together and could not lift herself up. Jesus saw her, called her to Him, and said, “Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.”

Her story teaches us about long-term burden, physical limitation, spiritual oppression, and public restoration.

1. Jesus Saw Her

The first thing we notice is that Jesus saw her.

She may have been overlooked by others. She may have been known by her condition. She may have been used to being bent low, unable to look up, and limited in movement.

But Jesus saw her.

A Christian herbalist must learn to see women beyond their limitations.

Do not only see:

The pain
The posture
The weight
The age
The diagnosis

The hormone issue
The emotional burden
The disability

See the person.

2. Jesus Called Her Forward

Jesus called her to Him. This was public, compassionate, and restoring.

The woman was not hidden in shame. Jesus brought attention to her restoration and defended the work of God in her life.

Christian herbal ministry should not expose people carelessly, but it should help restore dignity.

3. Jesus Loosed Her

The phrase “Woman, thou art loosed” is powerful.

Some women need loosening from burdens that have kept them bent low:

Fear
Shame
Stress
Grief
Condemnation
Trauma
Overwork
Religious pressure
Emotional heaviness
Long-term physical suffering
Identity tied to illness

A Christian herbalist must not claim to spiritually deliver people unless properly trained and called within ministry. But the Christian herbalist can point people to Christ, prayer, scripture, pastoral care, and appropriate support.

4. She Glorified God

After she was made straight, she glorified God.

Healing and restoration should return glory to God.

The goal of Christian herbalism is not to glorify herbs, products, or practitioners. The goal is to glorify God.

Herbal Ministry Reflection From the Bent-Over Woman's Story

This story teaches students that women may carry visible and invisible burdens for many years.

When a woman feels bent low:

Be compassionate.
Do not minimize her suffering.
Do not assume it is only physical.
Do not assume it is only spiritual.
Do not shame her posture, pain, fatigue, or limitations.
Encourage appropriate care.
Offer prayer with permission.
Point her to Christ's compassion.
Help her take one wise step at a time.

A Christian herbalist should never make someone feel smaller. The work should help women remember that God sees them.

Naaman's Servant Girl

Naaman's servant girl is different from the other women in this lesson. She was not the one needing physical healing. Instead, she became a messenger of hope.

She was a young captive girl serving in Naaman's household. Though she was in a low position, God used her words to point Naaman toward the prophet Elisha.

Her story teaches us that God can use anyone.

1. She Was Overlooked but Useful to God

She was young.
She was a servant.
She was displaced.
She was not powerful in the household.
She did not have a title.
She was not a physician.
She was not the prophet.

Yet she carried a message that pointed someone toward help.

A Christian herbal student may feel small, young, unqualified, overlooked, or limited. But God can use a humble person who speaks with wisdom.

2. She Pointed Naaman Toward the Right Help

This is one of the most important lessons for Christian herbalists.

She did not claim to heal Naaman.
She did not pretend to be the prophet.
She did not overstep her role.
She pointed him toward the one he needed to see.

This is a beautiful picture of referral.

A Christian herbalist does not need to be the answer to every problem. Sometimes the most faithful thing we can do is point someone to the right help.

3. Her Words Carried Hope

She spoke hope into a hopeless situation. She believed there was help available.

Christian herbalists should be careful with words. Our words can bring fear or hope. Confusion or clarity. Pride or humility. Pressure or peace.

Naaman's servant girl teaches us to speak with humility and hope.

Herbal Ministry Reflection From the Servant Girl's Story

This story teaches Christian herbal students about humility and referral.

A Christian herbalist may say:

"This is outside my role."
"I encourage you to speak with your healthcare provider."
"This needs medical attention."
"I can pray with you."
"I can share general education."
"I can point you toward someone more qualified."
"You are not without hope."

This is not weakness.

This is wisdom.

The servant girl did not heal Naaman, but she helped direct him toward healing. Christian herbalists must be willing to serve in the same humble way.

Women’s Wellness Must Be Handled With Dignity

Women’s health topics can be sensitive.

A woman may come with concerns about:

Menstrual cycles
Fertility
Pregnancy
Postpartum recovery
Miscarriage grief
Menopause
Hot flashes
Night sweats
Hair loss
Weight changes
Fatigue
Emotional overwhelm
Pain
Anxiety
Sleep changes
Aging
Body image
Hormonal changes
Chronic illness
Autoimmune concerns
Caregiver burnout
Spiritual weariness

These topics should never be handled with sarcasm, shame, pressure, or oversimplified answers.

A Christian herbalist must not say:

“That is just part of being a woman.”
“You are too emotional.”
“You just need to lose weight.”
“You just need this herb.”
“You do not need a doctor.”
“You lack faith.”
“Your body is failing you.”
“You should be over this by now.”

Instead, use language such as:

“Your concerns matter.”
“God sees you.”

“Let’s look at this carefully.”
“Let’s consider safety and support.”
“It may be wise to speak with your provider.”
“Let’s pray for wisdom.”
“You are not alone.”
“Your body deserves care, not shame.”

Dignity is part of Christian wellness.

Applying the Holistic P.E.N. Way™ to Women in Scripture

The Holistic P.E.N. Way™ helps students look at women’s stories through spirit, soul, and body.

P — Perspective: Spirit

What did this woman believe about God?
Did she reach for Christ?
Did she pray?
Did she glorify God?
Did she speak hope?
How did faith shape the story?

E — Essence: Soul

What emotions may have been present?
Was there grief, shame, fear, sorrow, courage, hope, or perseverance?
How did the woman carry her inner burden?
What soul wounds may have needed compassion?

N — Nutrition: Body

What physical burden was present?
Was there illness, weakness, infertility, posture limitation, exhaustion, or daily need?
What practical care or referral may have been needed?
How can body stewardship be taught safely?

This framework helps students avoid shallow thinking.

Women are whole people. Their stories often include faith, emotion, body, community, and restoration.

Biblical Women’s Restoration Chart

Use this chart as a study guide.

The Woman With the Issue of Blood

Physical Burden: Long-term bleeding and weakness.
Soul Burden: Exhaustion, shame, disappointment, isolation.
Spiritual Lesson: Faith reached for Christ.
Ministry Lesson: Do not shame chronic suffering. Restore dignity.

Hannah

Physical Burden: Infertility.
Soul Burden: Bitterness of soul, grief, weeping.
Spiritual Lesson: She poured out her heart in prayer.
Ministry Lesson: Treat grief and infertility with tenderness.

The Bent-Over Woman

Physical Burden: Eighteen years bowed together.
Soul Burden: Long-term limitation, possible shame, heaviness.
Spiritual Lesson: Jesus saw her, called her, loosed her, and she glorified God.
Ministry Lesson: Jesus restores dignity to the burdened.

Naaman's Servant Girl

Physical Burden: She was not the sick one, but she was in a difficult life position.
Soul Burden: Captivity, displacement, low status.
Spiritual Lesson: God can use the overlooked.
Ministry Lesson: A humble messenger can point someone toward help.

Safe Christian Herbal Language for Women's Wellness

When discussing women's wellness, use careful language.

Instead of saying:

"This herb balances all hormones."

Say:

"This herb has been traditionally used for women's wellness support, but individual needs, medications, pregnancy, and medical conditions must be considered."

Instead of saying:

"This tea will fix infertility."

Say:

“Infertility is complex and deserves compassionate care. Herbal education may support general wellness, but medical evaluation and professional support may be needed.”

Instead of saying:

“You do not need medication.”

Say:

“Medication decisions should be made with your licensed healthcare provider.”

Instead of saying:

“This symptom is just emotional.”

Say:

“Your experience matters. It may be helpful to look at physical, emotional, and spiritual support while also considering appropriate medical care.”

Instead of saying:

“God will heal you if you have enough faith.”

Say:

“God sees you, and we can pray for wisdom, comfort, strength, and proper care.”

Instead of saying:

“This is your fault.”

Say:

“You deserve compassion, support, and wise care.”

Words can wound or words can restore. Choose words that honor Christ.

When Women Need Referral

A Christian herbalist must know when a woman needs support beyond herbal education.

Encourage medical care or urgent evaluation for:

Severe bleeding
Severe pain
Pregnancy complications
Possible miscarriage
Chest pain
Difficulty breathing
Severe allergic reaction
Signs of infection
Fainting
Severe dizziness
Sudden weakness or numbness
Severe depression
Suicidal thoughts
Domestic violence
Unexplained weight loss
Persistent fever
Breast lumps or concerning changes
Severe pelvic pain
New or worsening symptoms
Medication concerns
Complex chronic illness

Referral is not failure.

Referral is compassion.

A Christian herbalist can pray and still refer. A Christian herbalist can share general wellness education and still encourage professional care.

The Role of Compassionate Listening

One of the most important tools in Christian herbalism is not an herb. It is listening.

Many women have been dismissed, rushed, ignored, or misunderstood. A Christian herbalist should learn to listen without immediately correcting, selling, prescribing, or assuming.

Compassionate listening sounds like:

“Tell me more.”
“How long have you been carrying this?”
“What support do you already have?”
“What have you already tried?”
“What concerns you most?”

“Would prayer be helpful?”
“Have you spoken with your healthcare provider?”
“What feels most overwhelming right now?”
“What is one small step you feel able to take?”

Listening helps the Christian herbalist understand the whole person.

Listening also helps prevent overstepping.

Restoration Is More Than Symptom Relief

In Scripture, restoration often includes more than the body.

Restoration may include:

Peace
Dignity
Faith
Hope
Strength
Community
Identity
Worship
Courage
Provision
Purpose
Freedom from shame
Renewed relationship with God

The woman with the issue of blood received physical healing, but she also received public acknowledgment and peace.

Hannah received Samuel, but she also poured out her soul and worshiped.

The bent-over woman was made straight, but she also glorified God.

Naaman’s servant girl was not the healed person, but she became part of a healing story by pointing someone toward help.

Restoration is not always instant. Restoration does not always look the same. But God is always compassionate.

The Christian Herbalist’s Responsibility Toward Women

A Christian herbalist serving women should commit to:

Listening carefully
Speaking gently
Avoiding shame
Avoiding exaggerated claims
Respecting privacy
Encouraging medical care when needed
Praying with permission
Using scripture as comfort, not condemnation
Considering the whole person
Respecting grief
Honoring safety
Recognizing trauma
Staying within scope
Referring when needed
Pointing women back to Christ

Women’s wellness ministry must never become a place of pressure, fear, body shame, or spiritual blame.

It should be a place of truth, wisdom, compassion, and dignity.

Teacher’s Teaching Notes

When teaching this lesson, remind students that women’s stories in Scripture must not be used carelessly.

Do not use Hannah’s story to promise pregnancy.
Do not use the woman with the issue of blood to shame medical care.
Do not use the bent-over woman to claim every physical issue is spiritual oppression.
Do not use Naaman’s servant girl to tell students they must fix everyone.

Instead, teach the principles:

God sees women.
Jesus honors faith.
Prayer matters.
Suffering deserves compassion.
Restoration belongs to God.
Referral can be wisdom.
Women should be treated with dignity.
Christian herbalists must speak carefully.

This lesson should help students become more compassionate and more responsible.

Student Reflection

Answer the following questions in your notebook or student workbook.

1. Which woman's story stood out to you most in this lesson?
2. What does the woman with the issue of blood teach you about long-term suffering?
3. What does Hannah teach you about prayer and sorrow?
4. What does the bent-over woman teach you about Jesus seeing the burdened?
5. What does Naaman's servant girl teach you about humble referral?
6. Why must women's wellness be handled with dignity and compassion?
7. What are some unsafe statements Christian herbalists should avoid?
8. How can scripture comfort women without shaming them?
9. When should a Christian herbalist refer a woman to medical or professional care?
10. How can the Holistic P.E.N. Way™ help you understand women's wellness stories?

Optional Discussion Board Prompt

Post your answer inside the PENothecary™ student space:

How can Christian herbalists serve women with compassion while avoiding shame, blame, and unsafe health claims?

Respond to at least one classmate with encouragement, scripture, or a thoughtful reflection.

Vocabulary Words

Restoration: The act of being renewed, lifted, repaired, strengthened, or brought back into dignity and wholeness by God's mercy.

Compassion: Christlike concern that sees suffering and responds with mercy.

Dignity: The worth and honor every person has because they are created by God.

Chronic Suffering: Long-term physical, emotional, or spiritual burden that may require ongoing care and compassion.

Referral: Directing someone to appropriate medical, pastoral, counseling, emergency, or professional support.

Women's Wellness: Education and support related to the whole woman, including spirit, soul, body, lifestyle, safety, and dignity.

Shame-Free Care: Support that does not blame, mock, pressure, or condemn a person for suffering.

Faith-Filled Wisdom: Trusting God while also walking in practical safety, discernment, and responsible care.

Holistic P.E.N. Way™: NHMEC's whole-person framework: Perspective for spirit, Essence for soul, and Nutrition for body.

Lesson 8 Summary

Women, healing, and restoration are important themes in Scripture. The woman with the issue of blood teaches us about long-term suffering, faith, and restored dignity. Hannah teaches us about sorrow, prayer, and God hearing the brokenhearted. The bent-over woman teaches us that Jesus sees those who have been burdened for many years. Naaman's servant girl teaches us that even the overlooked can become messengers of hope.

For the Christian herbal student, these stories are not to be used for careless claims or shallow answers. They are to be studied with humility, compassion, and reverence.

Women's wellness must be handled with dignity. Christian herbalists must avoid shame, blame, cure claims, spiritual pressure, and unsafe advice. They must listen well, pray with permission, teach within scope, refer when needed, and point women back to Christ.

Remember:

God sees women.
Jesus restores dignity.
Prayer matters.
Sorrow deserves compassion.
Chronic suffering should not be shamed.
Women are whole persons: spirit, soul, and body.
Herbs are supportive tools, not saviors.
Referral is wisdom.
Words must be gentle and true.
Christ remains the center.

Closing Prayer

Father God,

Thank You for seeing the women in Scripture and for seeing the women today who are carrying burdens. Thank You that no woman is invisible to You. Thank You for Your compassion, mercy, healing, and restoration.

Teach me to serve women with tenderness, wisdom, and truth. Keep me from careless words, shame, blame, pride, and unsafe claims. Help me listen well, pray with humility, teach responsibly, and refer when needed.

Let every woman I serve feel seen, valued, and treated with dignity. Let my herbal studies never become more important than compassion. Let my words point back to You as Creator, Provider, and ultimate Healer.

In Jesus' name,
Amen.

Instructor Closing

Students, Lesson 8 brings us back to the heart of Biblical Herbalism.

Herbs matter, but people matter more.
Knowledge matters, but compassion must guide it.
Safety matters, and dignity must never be forgotten.
Prayer matters, but it must never be used to pressure or shame.
Scripture matters, and it must be handled with love and truth.

The women in Scripture remind us that God sees long-term suffering, sorrow, limitation, and hidden service. He sees the woman pressing through the crowd. He sees the woman weeping in prayer. He sees the woman bent low for eighteen years. He sees the young servant girl who speaks hope from a humble place.

As Christian herbal students, we must learn to see people the way Jesus sees them.

Serve with compassion.
Speak with wisdom.
Study with humility.
Pray with love.
Refer with responsibility.
Honor women with dignity.
Keep Christ at the center.

This completes the Biblical Herbalism Foundations lesson series.
